IN THE DOMINION HOUSE.

THE HOUSE DOES NOT ADJOURN FOR DOMINION DAY.

The Rate of Interest on Money in Savings Banks Will Not be Raised—Cameron's Charges Against the Government—He Is Ready to Prove

OTTAWA, July 2.—There was a slim attendance in the House to-day and yesterday. A vote to adjourn, owing to it being Dominion Day, was lost by 72 to 50.

Mr. Mullock enquired whether the Minister of Justice or Premier Abbott, after the death of Sir John, advised Lord Stanley that Tupper be asked to form a Government. Sir John Thompson said he could not answer the question.

Hon. Mr. Foster said it was not the intention of the Government to raise the rate of interest in savings banks to 4 per cent.

The act amending the acts relating to the Alberta Railway & Canal Co. was read a third time.

OTTAWA, July 2.—In the House to-day the Minister of Justice said that the award of the arbitrators in the claim of the Canadian Pacific against the Government, in connection with the British Columbia section, would be in in a couple of weeks. The award would be final and the arbitrators were now merely considering the amount.

OTTAWA, July 2.—At the McGreevy-Langevin investigation to-day, a letter was filed from M. Connolly, then at Victoria, to Murphy, in which he speaks of Baker and Shakespeare as a brace of pirates, who demanded $5000 for their influence with Sir Hector to get the dock lengthened, but he (Connolly) promised them $500. Connolly said the editor of the Colonist was a good fellow, who gave the influence of his paper for nothing, but he would of course require to get something.

In the House on Tuesday Tupper introduced a bill to prevent the use of purse seines in the territorial waters of Canada, which was read the first time.

On motion to go into supply, Mr. Cameron, of Huron, took the opportunity to refer to the charges which he made against the Indian department when last he was in parliament. There were seventy in all, of which fifty-nine were absolutely true, and the sixtieth was substantially correct. Notwithstanding this the Government issued a book denying the charges of mismanagement and callous neglect of Indians, in which they misquoted, yet none of the ministers dare deny these charges in their seats in the House. Outside of Parliament and behind his back ministers of the Crown vilified his (Cameron's) character, and refused him a chance to meet them on the platform, to defend himself. If he couldn't prove every one of these charges he would refuse to sit in Parliament. He was particularly severe in his language, dealing chronologically with the first ten charges, and would take the opportunity to throw the balance by batches of ten and twelve at the heads of the Government as early as possible. "If I were outside of Parliament," he said, "I would say that the language of the Minister of Justice, the Secretary of State, and others, against me was false, untrue and unfounded, but being in Parliament, I intend to prove it." (Hear, hear).

An Empty Title.

OTTAWA, July 2.—Lady Macdonald's title will be Lady Macdonald of Earnscliffe.

Fight to the Bitter End.

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Herald's Coquimbo, Chili, correspondent telegraphs, under date of June 28 as follows: The president of the Government party has been elected. The provinces in South Chili, all under Balmaceda's control, voted on Saturday, as was a foregone conclusion, for Balmaceda's candidacy. Vicuna was chosen as his successor. This is only the general report of the vote; the final result will not be made public until July 25. Between now and then Balmaceda will remain in office, and will hesitate at nothing to stamp out the revolution. He is in the fight to the bitter end. There will be no compromise. Either he must fall or the insurgents will have to make an unconditional surrender. This town is alive to-day with warlike scenes. Everything points to a fierce fight at a very early date. News reached here that all the insurgent fleet, with the one exception of the Esmeralda, are in rendezvous at Caldera, 200 miles to the north, the port where the Blanco-Encalada was sunk. Their purpose is without doubt to attack Coquimbo at once. It seems strange that the insurgents have been encouraged by the reports emanating from here of disaffection among the supporters of Balmaceda. They hope to be joined by hundreds of deserters, as soon as they make a descent upon this place. If this is so it will make a big difference in the coming fight. It looks as if the insurgents and the Balmacedans would be in conflict by July 1st or 2nd. There are 7000 government troops in this town, but much less than one half of these are regulars. The rest are volunteers and they are not to be much depended upon. It is from their ranks that most of the deserters to the other side are gathered. There is no telling what the strength of the insurgents at Caldera is. It is reported that they have 8000 troops in all, who are well armed, and that only for lack of ammunition they could put a much larger force into the field. I have just been informed that an attack by both land and sea upon Coquimbo may be looked for. Balmaceda's officers here are making every preparation for a savage resistance. They are trained men and good fighters. The weakness of the Balmaceda army is in its volunteers.

Opium Seizure at Whatcom.

WHATCOM, July 1.—Inspector Charles A. McLennan boarded the Great Northern train at Whatcom this morning, just as it arrived from Blaine. On making an inspection he found a satchel containing 30 five-tael tins of prepared opium, the property of G. E. Noble and Charles Brooks. Both were arrested. Noble acknowledged he had bought it at New Westminster and was going to market it at Portland. Brooks joined Noble on this side of the boundary and does not claim to be a partner, but from their conversation they are undoubtedly partners. They will have a preliminary examination before United States Commissioner Williams to-morrow. James Buchanan, another inspector, seized 58 five-tael tins of prepared opium at Blaine this morning and arrested the smuggler.

A BIG SUIT FOR LIBEL.

Action for One Million Dollars, but Not Against a Paper.

MONTREAL, July 1.—The officers of the New York Life Insurance Co. have instructed their counsel, William B. Hornblower, to commence suit at once against the editors, publishers and proprietors of the New York Times for one million dollars damages for libel, and have retained as associates counsel Messrs. Joseph H. Choate, Frederick R. Conder, and Henry Beekman.

After Bradshaw.

PORT TOWNSEND, July 1.—The one topic of conversation in the city to-day has been the alleged disclosures purporting to prove that Collector of Customs C. M. Bradshaw has been for a year and a half guilty of diverting to the use of himself and friends money belonging to the government. Colonel Henry Landes threatened to-day that unless Colonel Oliver Wood retracted statements made against himself in the disclosures, Charles B. Wood would be arrested for libel. Wood dares Landes to do his worst. Copies of the affidavits which Wood has in his possession cannot be seen. They are said to be even stronger than published. Charles B. Wood has not arrived up to midnight.

Steamboat Lost.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 2.—News has been received of the sinking of the Southern Pacific's steamboat, Helen Mead, in the Gulf of Mexico, when en route from this city to Nicaragua, in tow of the steamship Wm. Hewis. The vessel was bought at Vicksburg, to run on the Bluefields River, in Nicaragua as a fuel transport, and was brought here and coppered. Soon after leaving here she sprung a leak and sank shortly after her crew had been transferred to the Hewis.

Taking Revenge.

ALBANY N.Y., July 2.—The employees of the N.Y. Central and Hudson River railway say the men who struck last August and were reinstated after the collapse of the strike are being discharged now. It is believed they were blacklisted, and now that the company has recovered from the effects of the strike, it is ridding itself of these men.

Officials Indicted.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 2.—The grand jury has returned some indictments for violations of the interstate commerce act. A prominent official of the Wabash railway is said to be among those indicted. It is alleged the road gave a firm a rebate on flour exported. An official of the G.T.R. is also said to be indicted.

A Big Thief Punished.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—City Treasurer Bardsley this morning was sentenced to imprisonment for 15 years in the Eastern penitentiary. He was also sentenced to pay a fine equal to the amount of the embezzlement to which he pleaded guilty.

The Boers' Raid.

CAPE TOWN, July 2.—An expedition of 100 armed Boers crossed the Limpopo River, with the purpose of raiding Mashonaland. They were the advance guard of a formidable trek. Troops of the British South Africa Company promptly went out to meet the raiders and succeeded in forcing them back after arresting their leaders.

"For years I have suffered with my back which sometimes became as if paralyzed. EUROPEAN DISPATCHES.

THE POPE REJECTS HERR CAHENSLY'S PETITION.

The French in the Mikong Valley—Sign of Hatred Against English and German Influences—The Czarowitch on His Way Home, etc., etc.

LONDON, July 2.—A Rome dispatch says that the Pope, before passing upon the petition of Herr Cahensly, caused a careful enquiry to be made into its wisdom, among ecclesiastics and laymen long identified with the interests of the Catholic church in America. The opinions almost universally expressed were that to comply with the petition, especially as to the appointment of bishops on the ground of race, would be to create a strong public sentiment in America adverse to the church. It was denied that there was any general falling off from the church among Catholic emigrants, or that the institutions of the republic were hostile to the Catholic faith. These arguments seem to have made an impression on the Pope, the result being the rejection of Herr Cahnsly's elaborate petition and plan.

THE FRENCH IN SIAM.

The French in the Mekong valley is said here to be only another form of displaying French hatred of English and German influences. Should France be permitted to keep possession of the territory claimed as a part of the animal kingdom, the terminus of the projected railway from Bangkok to the Mekong valley would be in French hands. The contract for the building of the railway is held by German capitalists, who would hardly care to carry the work to completion with the idea of simply benefiting France. It is recognized that the bounds of Siam are ill-defined, but the Mekong valley has never been treated by any possibility as a part of the French possessions and it is said force will be used if necessary to prevent French usurpation.

THE CZAROWITCH.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says: The Czar anxiously awaits news from the Czarowitch, who is now plunged somewhere in Siberia, on his way to Russia. The young prince is taking short cuts, which prevents him from sending word every day to his mother, according to the arrangement entered upon when he started on his journey to the east, and which he faithfully carried out, except when at sea or in the wilds of Siberia.

MRS. GRIMWOOD.

The proposed bestowal of the Victoria Cross upon Mrs. Grimwood, the heroine of Manipur, is in deference to a powerful public sentiment to the effect that the Red Cross intended for nurses is an absurdity, when bestowed upon a woman whose heroism was not that of the nurse, but that of a courageous woman assisting to repulse the attack of a savage foe.

ROBBING LADY MACDONALD OF HER NAME.

Surprise is expressed here that Lady Macdonald should be willing to surrender her husband's name for the title of a peerage, as it is felt she would be much more illustrious as the widow of Sir John Macdonald than with any title.

DEATH IN THE FLOOD.

A Berlin dispatch says that the damage wrought in Germany by the floods is far greater than was originally supposed. In the valley of the Rhine the streams generally overflowed their banks and carried many vineyards, besides overtaking and drowning many fugutives who lingered in their flight from the pursuing elements.

Horrible Slaughter of Slaves.

LONDON, July 1.—A letter just received from Sierra Leone says the vigilant suppression of the slave trade along the coast and the consequent inability of the warlike races to dispose of their captives at a profit, has caused a revival in the most terrible form of the scenes of slaughter and bloodshed which formerly made every chief town of the interior a Golgotha. Coolasie, it is said, has again witnessed the killing of as many as 200 victims in one day, and the death drum is heard in the streets even more frequently than before the British Ashantee expedition, when it was hoped such scenes were put to an end forever.

The savage Wangarus recently made a raid into Daguimba, completely devastating the villages and carrying off over 2000 captives. They were unable to get rid of the prisoners as slaves and held a sacrificial feast which lasted for three or four days, in which every captive perished, not even the children being spared. The horrors of the slave trade, in the settlements that the approaching extinction of the slave trade in Western Africa is making warfare more merciless than ever.

Terrible Tornado.

BERLIN, July 2.—A terrible tornado swept over Crefeld district of Rhenish Prussia to-day. In the town of Crefeld two booths and a hall which had been erected for the purpose of a rifle meeting, together with 50 houses, were destroyed. Many persons were killed and injured. Trees, telegraph poles and wires were prostrated, and fences, sign boards and awnings were hurled through the air with incredible force. Soldiers, policemen and firemen are engaged in removing the debris.

Parnell Again Repudiated.

DUBLIN, July 2.—At a meeting held here yesterday, the Irish Roman Catholic bishop, re-affirmed their former declaration that Parnell was unfit to be leader of the Irish people; that he was unworthy of the confidence of the Roman Catholics and called upon Irishmen to repudiate him.

Vesuvius in Eruption.

ROME, July 2.—Vesuvius renewed its violent activity and a torrent of lava is rushing down the mountain, rapidly increasing in volume. Yesterday two Brazilian tourists ascended the mountain, and had just reached its summit and were standing on the verge when they were suddenly enveloped in a cloud of smoke. When the outburst had subsided it was found that one of the gentlemen had been asphyxiated and had fallen into the mouth of the crater. His companion was saved by the guide.

Dolgoroukoff Dead.

PARIS, July 2.—Prince Dolgorouki died here last evening. In the Russian army he held the rank of General of Cavalry and aide-de-camp.

Iron Workers Strike.

LONDON, July 2.—A Glasgow dispatch says that 3500 additional iron workers struck this morning against the proposed five per cent reduction in wages.

Heavy Failure.

LONDON, July 2.—Alexander & Co., one of the largest houses in this city and Liverpool has failed.

A SECOND ROBESPIERRE.

Balmaceda More Brutal than the French Revolution Tyrant.

SANTIAGO, July 1.—In this city today the shooting of the officers and sailors of the torpedo launch Gualda was the special feature of the wholesale execution. The men were marched to the plaza, where they were shot down by companies of sharpshooters. This butchery not only caused indignation among the friends of the dead, but also among Balmaceda's ardent defenders. The dead sailors and officers were in charge of the steam torpedo launch Gualda in Valparaiso bay, and one night the commander proposed to his crew to desert and go over to the constitutional party. All acquiesced except one. He notified the authorities at once, and the men were captured and taken to Valparaiso and thrown into prison.

One by one they were tortured and made to go without food and water for two or three days at a time. The cells which the men occupied were reeking with filth and vermin. On the day on which they met their death they were so weak that they had to be assisted to walk. The tortures to which the prisoners have been subjected by Balmaceda's agents are almost past belief.

BUENOS AYRES, June 30.—Advices from Santiago state that the revolution in that province is supported by all its influential citizens, and troops have been dispatched to the scene by the government. A commission has also been sent to the province to arrange the difficulty.

NANAIMO NEWS.

The City Deserted Yesterday—New Church at Chemainus—Numerous Picnics.

NANAIMO, July 2.—The city was almost entirely deserted yesterday by the residents, who were everywhere on excursions of one kind or another. The steamer Cutch was the first one to get away and she carried her full complement of the people from Northfield. The West Indian next got away, taking the I.O.O.F. excursion party, which numbered about three hundred. Both vessels had brass bands on board, who struck up a lively tune as they were proceeding out of the harbor and soon they were lost to sight. Both vessels returned to the city this morning and the excursionists were highly pleased with their visit to Vancouver and claim they never spent a more pleasant day.

METHODIST SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC.

The children of the Methodist church Sunday school departed on their annual picnic at 9 o'clock yesterday morning for Newcastle Island. They were towed there on a scow by Foremans & Campbell's steam launch and this trip in itself was highly gratifying to the children, as they have long talked of such a ride. The teachers and Ladies Aid were very attentive to the little ones and administered to their wants. They returned to the city about dusk and the smiling faces of the children told how well they had enjoyed the day.

TEACHERS' EXAMINATIONS.

A number of ladies left the city yesterday to take part in the teachers' examinations which open to-day in Victoria. There are no less than 12 young ladies from Nanaimo who are now undergoing examinations. These are: Misses Cairns, Poole, Webb, Ramsey, Hart, Fulton, Duncan, Hilbert, Haarar, Brown, Gordon and Thomas. A few of the above already hold a certificate and at the present time are teaching classes, but as these certificates are only a 3rd B it becomes essential for them to renew it, or obtain a higher grade. It is expected that at least seven out of the 12 will be successful.

CHEMAINUS EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

The Episcopalian church at Chemainus has been completed and the [illegible] first service is to be held in it on Sunday next, but it will not be consecrated until some time in August. The structure looks exceedingly pretty, being of Gothic design. The Rev. Mr. Holmes has experienced quite a difficulty in obtaining sufficient funds to build this sacred edifice, and has even had to take the tools in hand and work at it himself. A little more money is required to pay off the expenses of the building, and all those who are interested in this good work would confer a favor by remitting any small donation to the Rev. Mr. Holmes at Chemainus.

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

The customs returns for the month of June are as follows:

Sick Mariners' dues	285 44

THE OIL OCTOPUS.

The Standard Trust Has a Free Hand Upon Europe.

BERLIN, June 21.—Reference has already been made in these dispatches to the action of the Prussian minister of commerce, Herr Von Berlepsch, against the German American Petroleum Company. Prussia is one of the greatest coal oil markets in the world. How the great oil company got its grip on this place and consequently on all Germany is explained by the fact that the principal German firms refused to submit to the formation of the German-American Petroleum Company or lose the importing trade. The whole of Germany is divided into districts assigned to the different firms belonging to the new company. Tanks have been erected at different points, and it is now feared the entire retail trade will fall into the hands of local branches of the great monopoly. The German American company seems determined to absorb every branch of the coal oil trade. First it got hold of American well owners and refiners, then of the American export business, next the private shipping interests, then of the European importing business. Then of course from European ports, and now it seems to be trying to seize the entire retail trade. It is a monopoly of the whole world, and a private one at that with its seat in America. If it succeeds in buying out or combining with the men who control the production of Russian coal oil, then the supply of the whole world will be subject to the power of a few gentlemen in New York.

Mr. Max Gaede, a director of the German-Russian Naphtha Company, one of the best posted men in the coal oil trade, talking to-day to a correspondent of the Associated Press, said:

The Standard Oil Company has within the last few months managed to secure a combination of all the large houses in Bremen and Hamburg. It then organized them into a stock company, the German American Petroleum Company, in which it holds a controlling interest. It has done the same in Rotterdam and Antwerp in order to control the trade of Holland and Belgium. We have just now received information that it has bought out the firm of Walter & Co., Venice, who control the oil trade of Italy. You see the Standard is getting in its work everywhere. We may fight for some time to come, but I feel that eventually we must also submit. Until some cheaper substitute for coal oil is found or invented, the Standard Oil Company will have control of the trade the world over. I do not think there will be any material change in prices.

When asked if the German government investigation of the matter would have any tangible results, Mr Gaede said:

No; the German government can do nothing. Everything has been done in a strictly legal way. There is apparently no ring, only a regular mercantile corporation.

LABOR TROUBLES.

The Militia Called out to Preserve the Peace Among Coal Miners.

SEATTLE, July 1.—The indications are that the next move in the mining troubles will be made at Gilman. The Seattle Coal and Iron Company apparently intend to follow the example of the Oregon Improvement Company and run its mines, for, in evident preparation of such a step, 150 companies of the militia were sent to Gilman early this morning.

The companies were sent in accordance with the request of the county commissioners and Sheriff James Woolery, who felt that the civil authorities would be unable to protect the company's property in case an effort were made to start the mines with new men. The Seattle Coal and Iron Company had declared that the previous attempts to take workingmen to the mines had resulted in intimidation and serious disturbance. The final determination to send the militia was the result of a telegraphic correspondence. Deputy Sheriff Jack McDonald, who is stationed at Gilman, sent the following dispatch to Sheriff Woolery yesterday:

Things at Gilman look very alarming. The men are under arms. They are looking for a lot of men to arrive to work the mines.

Sheriff Woolery immediately sent back the following despatch:

Prevent any breach of peace, if possible. I will send plenty of men, if necessary.

The sheriff sent a despatch to Colonel J. C. Haines, at Franklin, suggesting that he could take a company of militia to Gilman, and Colonel Haines answered:

Can raise from here with twenty men. Captain Ingraham, with E company, can leave Seattle for Gilman. Arrange transportation for him.

GILMAN, July 1.—There is very little change in the situation at Gilman. The miners maintain a constant air of watchfulness, and it is pretty evident from remarks heard among them that the feeling against the importation of negro labor to work the mines, if attempted, will meet with the most determined opposition. Whether this openly expressed opinion expresses, at least, if not fully concurred in by all—is that while the men may land without violence being done them, all possible moral suasion will be used to wean them from the intention of proceeding from the depot to the hungers, but if they persist in going they will be allowed to go unmolested. Such was the statement made in a gathering of miners some twenty in number which congregated before the postoffice this evening, to which those present said "aye" with evident good will. The men, however, are constantly on the alert. The incoming trains are watched closely.

SEATTLE, July 1.—At Franklin everything was quiet yesterday, for it was a day of mourning over the bodies of the two men killed on Sunday. A large funeral was held over their remains, which were interred at Black Diamond.

The trouble at the latter place has broken out afresh on account of the action of the Black Diamond Company in throwing its mines open to all white miners. The company had tried to negotiate with the labor union to get the old men back, but failing in this effort decided to act independently of the union. Though the feeling ran high there was no serious disturbance.

A. N. vessels over 100 negroes were at work.

Colonel J. C. Haines, who left Franklin at about 9:30 last night and arrived here at 10 o'clock, on his way to Gilman with Company D, said: We left everything quiet and I anticipate no further disturbances at Franklin. Indeed last I thought there would have been trouble I should not have come away. Captain Joseph Green remains in charge of Company B.

At present the whites are in greater fear of the negroes. They wanted to go to Black Diamond in the afternoon to attend the funeral of the two dead miners, and they came to me asking me to protect their cabins with their wives and children from the attacks of the negroes. Accordingly I ordered a detachment to go on guard there. Another detachment was at the negro camp, so that the honors were pretty evenly distributed.

The feeling at Black Diamond is very bitter, very intense. Word came over to Franklin that the strikers were so wrought up after the funeral that they drove the telegraph operator from his office.

I believe that the presence of the militia will prevent any outbreak at Gilman.

WORLD WIRINGS.

Heavily Insured—Earthquakes in Italy—The Search in India.

LONDON, July 1.—It appears that the exhumation of the body of James McHenry, the well-known Erie railroad litigant, with a view to examination, was done for the reason that McHenry's life was insured for over £1,000,000 in various companies in England and America, and some of the companies suspected suicide by poison, which would render void the policies. The analysis of the stomach is not yet complete.

BERLIN, July 1.—The Vossische Zeitung, commenting on the London Times' story of the fall of Prince Bismarck, remarks: "The excessive optimism until Count Von Munster has been further heard from, but asserts that Emperor William once told some intimate friends that it required all his firmness of will to keep Prince Bismarck within the bounds of reason.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., July 1.—Complete election returns show that the coalition has elected 52 members, the Ministerialists 35, the Labor party 16 and the Independents 8. Grouped according to the tariff they will number 75 for protection and 62 for free trade.

ROME, July 1.—The inhabitants of the province of Verona were last night thrown into a state of excitement and fear by a series of severe earthquake shocks. The houses in some cases collapsed. In spite of the damage done there was no loss of life.

HANOVER, July 1.—Emperor William left the island of Heligoland this morning on the steamship Prince Bismarck. The vessel carrying the Emperor's party is escorted by two German iron clads.

MADRAS, July 1.—The drouth in this province continues, and all hope of obtaining intermediate crops has been abandoned, the poorer classes suffering from famine and the scarcity of water.

PARIS, July 1.—Cardinal Lavigerie is prostrated by illness. He is only able to secure occasional periods of rest.

LONDON, July 1.—The Official Gazette announces that by order of Her Majesty the name of Sir William Gordon-Cumming has been struck off the list of deputy lieutenants of Elginshire, Scotland.

In the debate on the educational bill to-day in the Commons the Government assented to make the limit of age 5 years instead of 3, involving an extra grant of £1,000,000. Mundella then moved to extend the provision to children of over 14.

Hanage, Unionist, proposed 15 years as a compromise.

After debate, in which Goschen complained that he did not know where he would find the money for these concessions, and Chamberlain had expressed surprise that Goschen strained at a gnat after swallowing a camel, the Government agreed to accept the compromise of 15 years.

Our Old Fire Company.

"That was a gay old company that we belonged to Joe, away back, in '68, when you and I 'ran with the machine.' Do you remember that big fire in Hotel Row, one freezing night, when fifteen people were pulled out of their burning rooms and came down the ladder in their night-clothes; and how 'Dick' Greene brought down two 'kids' at once—one in his arms, the other slung to his back? Poor Dick? He got the catarrh dreadfully, from so much exposure, and suffered from it five years or more. We thought once he was going into consumption, sure. But, finally he heard of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, and tried it, and it cured him up as sound as a flint. I tell you, Joe, that catarrh remedy is a great thing. It saved as good a man and as brave a fireman as ever trod shoe leather."

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.

3 PRACTICAL POINTS

One of the most successful German physicians gave at the recent meeting of the Medical Congress these three important points:

1. Keep the Head Cool.
2. Keep the Bowels Open.
3. Keep the Feet Warm.

These conditions are not so easily obtained as one would think. Why? Because without pure and healthy blood a vigorous circulation cannot be kept up, and because the food and occupation of most people tends to clog up the bowels and produce constipation. The success of B. B. B. like that of the German physician, lies in its purifying the blood and regulating the bowels. Pure and stomach, that these three conditions are fulfilled easily and disease can find no lodgment in the body.

THE BEST SPRING MEDICINE.

B B B

This medicine does purify the blood and cure all diseases arising from impure or unhealthy blood. It does regulate the entire system and cure constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, sick headache, scrofula, skin diseases, rheumatism, and all disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. During the past ten years over one million bottles have been sold in Canada, and, although we guarantee every bottle to do all we claim, we have not received a single complaint.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

TO OUR PATRONS.—The Victoria Sugar Company propose erecting upon an extensive scale, at their present premises, a new and improved refinery and plant of superior capacity, capable of producing 1,000 barrels of sugar per week.

The new station will be situated on Store street, where, when the improvements are completed for the year 1892, we will be prepared to receive cane, beet or other raw sugars, and refine the same with improved machinery, and will be able to offer better prices, at every station, for raw sugars than we have been able to do heretofore.

HOW CANADA'S BIRTHDAY WAS CELEBRATED IN THIS CITY.

Picnics too Numerous to Mention—Sunday School Children Have Their Annual Outing—The Sports at Vancouver—How the Victoria Contingent Did.

Canada has seen another birthday ne in Victoria at least was celebrat by almost every citizen, all seeming be out to enjoy themselves. The day s perfect, the sun shining brightly m early in the morning until all were dy to go home. Shortly after the al breakfast hour small and large ies with lunch baskets could be seen ding their way towards the differ- picnic grounds around the city, se places where there were regular ics of course drawing the majority. the Gorge, Beacon Hill, Fowl Bay d hundreds of other pretty little ooks were not forgotten and every- here people were enjoying themselves. No serious accident occurred during y with the exception of the de- g of a car on the Oak Bay branch.

AT THE SAANICH PICNIC.

citizens who spent the day at picnic of course left the city the morning and had a pleasant fore the sun began to get too comfort. The roads were in dition so that a drive to Saan- resent one of the prettiest e city. There were hundreds at the picnic grounds, the of Saanich receiving and doing their utmost to amuse their visitors from the city. Athletic sports such as foot racing and jumping was taken part in by all, making the events both interesting and amusing. A few horse races were also going on and being enjoyed immensely. The Victoria Athletic Club gave an exhibition.

AT LANGFORD PLAINS.

Here the members of the Pandora Street Methodist and First Presbyterian Sunday schools with hundreds of others spent their first of July. The 8 o'clock train was fairly packed with the children and other friends bound for the plains. A good time was of course had during the trip, but when the plains were reached, the real fun commenced. Boys, girls and in fact everybody went in to enjoy themselves and they succeeded immensely as could be proved by the faces of those present. The fun commenced early and it continued throughout the day without a hitch. Foot races for which valuable prizes were offered, were run by boys and girls on a splendid track, those who were left behind, being as well amused as the winners, although of course they did not get the prizes. The baggage car both at 8 and 10 o'clock was well loaded with baskets so it could be guessed even by those who did not go that all the little parties had well filled tables. It was 9 o'clock before the last train load returned to the city, having tired after their long day of fun.

THE PEDDAR BAY PICNIC.

To see the steamer Princess Louise ... led down with a merry excursion party reminded one of the many a good old run the Louise made out of the ... bor in former years when she was known as the Olympia. Although not the largest, she is one of the most popular excursion steamers in British Columbia waters as could be manifested by the crowds that filled her cabins and covered her deck as she pulled out from her dock at eight o'clock yesterday morning with the Sunday School children of the Gorge Road, Esquimalt, Victoria West, and James Bay Methodist Sunday Schools, and the public generally. The run along the straits was a splendid one, the water being as smooth as glass, so different from last year's picnic when the old Amelia was tossed around like a cork. The Pedder Bay picnic grounds are popular and where crowded all day as today by a party that was full of fun. Games of all kinds were indulged in by the younger folks to the enjoyment of the older and themselves. The boat returned at dusk, having done a good day's work in carrying the crowds she did to and from Pedder Bay.

THE BAPTISTS PICNIC.

The Calvary and Emanuel Baptist Churches joined hands in their celebration of the day. It took the form of a picnic at Oak Bay, a real old fashioned basket picnic where formality was cast to the winds for the day and all from the reverend pastors to the little children carried with them the material of enjoyment. The morning was devoted to boating, bathing, fishing and a general looking around to see who was there. Then came the lunch under the trees from well-filled baskets and also the fun of building a fire and burning your fingers lifting the hot coffee pot.

In the afternoon all kinds of games and races were indulged in. Football, tennis, baseball and croquet for some and races of some description for everybody. Then as evening drew near the mothers collected their children and the children collected their prizes and sunburnt faces and everyone scrambled to get home on the same car much to the encouragement of lost children and broken dishes.

SHOOTING AT THE DRIVING PARK.

The Victoria Gun Club had a team shoot and dinner at the Victoria Driving Park yesterday afternoon. The following are the best scores made out of possible 25. Five traps and peoria blacbirds were used: W. Healy, 23; O Weller, 17; G. Giles, 17; E. Wall, 15; A. Whittaker, 15; W. White, 14; J Switzer, 12; A. Almamis, 12; G. W Winne, 11.

A friendly match was shot off, with 10 men from the Victoria and Union Clubs, at 10 birds to each man, and resulted in a victory for the Union Club by a score of 52 to 47.

UNION GUN CLUB SCORE.

J. C. McClure, 9; T. Higgins, 8; M. A. Diar, 17; H. N. Short, 17; Dr. ... C Davie, 16; F. Hewlings, 15; B. H John, 9; Chas. Hayward, 18; F. ... White, 12; J. Murdock, 10.

The Barnsley cup was won by Mr. Healy for the first time, but will be competed for twice more, and will be won by the man making the best average out of 75 shots.

After a most enjoyable day the boys all sat down to a splendid dinner prepared for the occasion by Mr. and Mrs. Stone of the park, and did ample justice to the good things provided.

THE 1ST AT VANCOUVER.

Hundreds of Victorians spent their holiday at Vancouver, where a grand celebration was taking place. Some even left the city on Tuesday morning to make sure of passage on the Islander, which on Tuesday night was crowded; in fact, so many wanted to go that the C.P.N. Company found it necessary to put the Yosemite on the route as well as the Islander. The Yosemite, too, was well crowded when she left at 2 o'clock yesterday morning.

All the sports were keenly contested and the honors were pretty evenly divided. In the rifle match teams were present from Victoria, Vancouver and Westminster. The latter did not have a complete team on the ground so they were left completely behind, but Victoria was nearly as bad being defeated by Vancouver by 93 points. The bicycle races resulted as follows: One mile, handicap, ordinaries, Lawrenson, 1st; Mason, 2nd. One mile, safeties, dead heat between Tiedeman, of the Island Wanderers, (Victoria) and a Vancouver man. Two mile, safeties and ordinaries, Lawrenson, 1st; Sherwood, of Victoria, a good second. Five miles, safeties and ordinaries, Lawrenson, 1st; Mason, 2nd; Sherwood, of Victoria, 3rd. The last race was a particularly good one the three men coming home in a bunch.

DesBrisay lost the 1½ mile single scull race against Watts but the James Bay club, of Victoria, which DesBrisay represents, got even by beating the Burrard Inlet Rowing Club in the four-oared straightaway race. The James Bay crew was Jackson, Sullivan, Wilddowson and Askew. H. C. McCauley, of Victoria, won the canoe race. Nanaimo won the dry test and Vancouver the wet test, there being only two teams on the ground. Vancouver juniors won the lacrosse match from the Victoria juniors.

To Spy Out the Land.

Three land-hunters leave for the north before the end of the present week to spy out the land, and select a stretch of country suitable for a large settlement. They will be absent about three weeks, and if their report is favorable on their return, 25 families and a number of sturdy young batchelors will move north immediately and occupy the land. The three explorers have been selected by the intending settlers to choose the land, and the expenses of the party will be equally divided. It is proposed to explore the entrance to the Chilcoten country, from the Head of Knight's Inlet, where excellent land is said to be obtainable about two days' journey inland. Another party of prospectors will also leave for the north shortly to select farming land, but they go only in their own behalf, and do not represent a large community. They will not go so far north either but try and secure suitable and nearer civilization. If these expeditions prove successful, it will not be long till the country along the coast is well settled.—Columbian.

What Does It Mean?

"100 Doses One Dollar" means simply that Hood's Sarsaparilla is the most economical medicine to buy, because it gives more for the money than any other preparation. Each bottle contains 100 doses and will average to last a month, while other preparations, taken according to directions, are gone in a week. Therefore, be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla, the best blood purifier.

THE GOVERNMENT'S PROXIES.

Mr. HEISTERMAN'S action, in resigning the position of school trustee, to which he had been appointed by the Government, has been commended by every person who understands the relations which the Government will insist upon maintaining with its representatives on the school board. Even the Colonist is pleased that one of the nominees of the Government has shown that he has too much self-respect to retain a position in which he would be expected to stifle his own convictions, and that organ practically endorses Mr. HEISTERMAN and condemns the Government. Of the three nominees of the Government, Mr. HEISTERMAN had the strongest reasons for retaining his seat on the school board. He had served one or two terms before, when trustees were elected by popular vote, and had voluntarily retired a year or two ago. Mr. JESSOP and Mr. MCCONNAN, the other Government appointees, were very recently candidates for the position but the electors rejected them by decisive majorities. As citizens, nothing can be said against them, and even if a flaw could be found in either of their coats, there would be no occasion for printing the fact at the present time. The objection to them as trustees is stronger, under the circumstances, than it would be were they only unfit personally for the responsible duties of school guardians. They are proxies of the department, and as such they will be expected to enforce the decrees of the education bureau. They must know—for they have the fate of Col. WOLFENDEN before them—that they dare not be influenced by a conscientious regard for the best interest of scholars, teachers and parents. Whenever they ceased to be servants of the department their official heads would fall in the basket, and more pliant tools would be sought for to fill their places. Col. WOLFENDEN, a Government official, failed to satisfy Hon. JOHN ROBSON simply because he followed his own judgment and spoke and voted at the board against a hireling teacher, who had conspired with outside influences to foment a rebellion against a superior. Col. WOLFENDEN was too honorable a man to be a party to the HALLIDAY disgrace, but his independence on that occasion cost him his official life. The same fate awaits Messrs. JESSOP and MCCONNAN if their convictions should place them in antagonism to ROBSON. These gentlemen cannot fail to appreciate the situation, and in their own interests—for the sake of their reputations—and in the interest of the schools, they will [illegible] Mr. HEISTERMAN. Without possessing the confidence of the people they will only be tempting certain failure and condemnation. Mr. JESSOP, who has been a resident for a longer time than Mr. MCCONNAN, is well aware that no feature of Robsonism will be tolerated in the management of the Victoria schools, it matters not whether applied direct or by filtration through special representatives.

HONEST JOHN'S ATTACK ON VICTORIA.

The Vancouver papers, as was expected would be the case, have taken up the cudgel in behalf of the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, anent his statement to a Winnipeg reporter, that Victoria must sooner or later fall behind Vancouver commercially; and, in support of their argument, they lean heavily upon the Colonist. The Telegram quotes the Colonist as saying that "no one ever supposed that Victoria can hold the commerce of the Province," and it comments on this sapient observation to the effect that "the Colonist's remarks are written in its usual strain of good sense and moderation." Now we have no objection to this scratch-my-back-I'll-scratch-yours process, but we would point out that, moderate and sensible as are the Colonist's remarks, it is not altogether disinterested testimony. The Colonist has a charge to keep, a man to glorify, and that man is the junior member for Cariboo. A difficult role, particularly when the junior member for Cariboo runs counter to the local interests of his organ. However, we will not parade the skeleton in the Colonist's closet. Rather does its peculiar position call for our sympathy. To pass on to the remarks of the Telegram, we quote: "But it is not judicious of the TIMES to challenge the comparisons it does, nor are its remarks conceived in a kindly spirit." The TIMES expressly stated in passing on the alleged statement by the Premier to the Winnipeg reporter, that it had no desire to disparage the Mainland cities. But the Premier had to be contradicted. So far as figures went he had libelled Victoria. It was necessary to produce these figures, and the fact of their having excited the ire of the Telegram shows pretty conclusively that the shot went home. If the Mainland papers would not have the TIMES publish comparisons not to their liking, they must find some means of stopping the mouth of the Hon. JOHN ROBSON. But to discuss seriously the question of the future commercial emporium of British Columbia, it must strike our Mainland contemporaries that convenience will determine it and not the mean depth of navigable water between Race Rocks and "Prospect Point." Our view of the matter is, that Victoria is more convenient for deep water ships than is Vancouver. And even allowing a perfect equality in this respect between Victoria and Vancouver, the advantage is bound to remain with the former so long as its wholesale men persist in doing business at the old stand. Nevertheless, the Mainland cities are not yet done growing, nor need they expect to come to a standstill for many years to come. Behind Vancouver and New Westminster is the entire Fraser River country, not yet one-quarter part developed. The growth of the two Mainland cities in question will be coincident with the development of their circumjacent rural districts. Indeed, should it happen that a deep water ship never passed Victoria, both Vancouver and New Westminster must continue to increase population and wealth, nor cease in these particulars until the point is reached when rural development is no longer possible. But commercially speaking, as the main distributing point for coast and trans-Pacific trade, Victoria will continue to more than hold her own. The Mainland cities will grow principally because of the rich and as yet undeveloped agricultural district of the Fraser. The trans-Pacific trade will be but an incident of the business activities of these cities. Victoria, on the other hand, being the most Western of British Columbia cities, and handy and safe of access to deep water ships, will continue to be as now, the favorite point for the discharging of all cargoes not consigned to far Eastern points. Besides, there are thousands upon thousands of acres of arable land tributary to Victoria yet to be developed. Without disparagement to the Mainland, we cannot agree with the Hon. JOHN ROBSON, nor can we in the remotest degree concur with the Colonist in the construction it has chosen to put on his language. Had this paper spoken in like manner it would never have heard the last of it.

DAMNED WITH FAINT PRAISE.

Whether the Colonist is aware of it or not it is immaterial to enquire, but in relation to the school examinations it should know that it is the methods of the Department of Education that are under discussion, and not Mr. POPE'S epistle to the trustees. Mr. POPE'S letter to the trustees is a beautiful production of its kind. It reveals him more the lawyer than the educator. Among that class known as Philadelphia lawyers, Mr. POPE, judged by his epistolary correspondence, would take high rank. But as has just been pointed out the feature under discussion is not Mr. POPE as an author, and inferentially as a man who is afraid to meet his accusers face to face, but the methods of the Department of Education, and that there shall be no mistake [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

PORT SIMPSON, B. C.

THE LIVERPOOL OF THE PACIFIC.

Terminus of the projected Railways, the Pacific, Peace River and Hudson Bay and the Manitoba Northwestern Railways.

A limited number of Lots have been placed on the market, including some choice wate front at bottom figures, giving everyone an opportunity to purchase.

The Government is now surveying large tracts of farming land tributary to Port Simpson. With the prospective railway project, this affords to investors the same opportunity Vancouver did a few years ago. Only a limited number of Water Front and City Lots will be sold at the present prices.

$100 EACH—$20 DOWN AND $10 PER MONTH—$100 EACH

THE COMING CITY OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Being situated about 400 miles north of Vancouver on the Mainland, and directly on the Pacific Ocean, thus dispensing with the excessive towage rates charged on sailing vessels going to Seattle and other Sound ports, and is 600 miles shorter to China and Japan than any other port on the coast.

It is the only harbor north of Vancouver, and has been recommended to the Government by Admiral Seymour as a naval station.

The climate is milder in winter than Victoria, owing to the warm trade winds which strike this point while in summer it enjoys the refreshing breeze of the Pacific.

Remember this Port was recommended by the Mackenzie Government as the Terminus of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Pear. Oysters.

Mr. Wm. Jenkinson of Johnson street, has two splendid pearl oyster shells which he bought from West Coast Indians. If there are many of a similar kind on the West Coast there is a good chance for some enterprising company to start a good business. The shells are very large ones and have a splendid lining of pearl.

Needs Watering.

For several weeks past a great deal of hauling has been done on Pandora street by the sewerage contractor taking pipes to and removing them from the pipe shed. This, of course, causes a great deal of dust to fly and the residents of that street to grumble about the dust spoiling their gardens, etc. A trip or two up the street with one of the watering carts would be welcomed.

Jos Bayley, Auctioneer.

Jos. Bayley, proprietor of the Trentham House, Esquimalt road, has procured auctioneer's license and is prepared to attend to sales of all kinds. Mr. Bayley has had an experience of many years as an auctioneer in England and Australia and his qualifications have been of such a character as to qualify him for the business in this city. Besides conducting sales, Mr. B. is prepared to advance money to any required amount, on consignments.

A Crazy Artilleryman.

Charles Humphrey, a member of Battery C, stopped Policeman Smith on the street last night and in an excited way told him that he was going to cut his throat and jump into the bay. Smith thought he was slightly intoxicated and started him home. Shortly afterwards he heard a man crying "police" at the top of his voice, and running to the place from where the cries came found Humphrey in a very excited state telling the bystanders that the city was all on fire. Smith took him to the city lockup, where his mind was found to have become deranged. He will be examined to-day and sent to the asylum.

To China and Japan.

The C.P.R.ss. Empress of Japan, arrived from Vancouver last evening for China and Japan. She had a full cargo of freight and a lot of passengers, whose numbers were added to at Victoria by the following: Prince Kuchito and suite, Mr. Max Leman, Chas. Leman, Dr. H. F. Walkem, and 18 Chinese in the steerage. A large number went out on the Alert which acted as tender and had a good look at the big ocean liner.

The Empress drew 26 feet, 3 inches, before leaving Vancouver, but some of the water ballast was removed and when she left Victoria she was drawing 26 feet.

Sugar, Flour and Butter.

Unitarian Church.

A clergyman of the Unitarian church, from the other side, will hold services in this city, shortly, with a view to ascertaining if there are enough adherents of the faith in Victoria to form a congregation and establish a church. There are, we learn, a number of Unitarians here who will give all the assistance in their power to that end.

Canada's Natal Day.

The streets looked deserted yesterday afternoon, thousands of people having left town, some to Vancouver, others to Langford Plains, Pedder Bay and Oak Bay, besides numerous private picnics. Old Sol poured down his ardent rays all day long. Many were the complexions which were tanned and sunburnt, but this may now be removed by using glycerine and cucumber cream, to be obtained from cochrane and munn. Everyone seems to have had a good time.

The Fairhaven Excursion on 4th of July.

The favorite and magnificent steamer Olympian will leave Turner, Beeton & Co's wharf at 8 a.m. for Fairhaven and will be back before midnight, leaving Fairhaven at 7:30 p.m. The fare for the round trip will be $2.50. The citizens of Sehome, Whatcom and Fairhaven will celebrate the event in grand style and everything will be done to give visitors a pleasant time. This will be the only boat for Fairhaven from Victoria on the 4th and everybody should take advantage of the cheap rate. Full band will be on board. Persons intending to go should purchase their tickets to day or to-morrow at Union Pacific office, 100 Government street.

Vacation for the Police.

The members of the police force are anxiously awaiting the announcement that their summer vacations will begin. In years gone by it has been customary for each member of the force to receive a vacation of 10 days, usually starting about the first of June, with two or three being absent at a time. This year nothing has been said about a vacation, and they are afraid that there is danger of it being overlooked. They are on duty seven days in the week, and although their work is not particularly laborious, it becomes very monotonous and they claim that a little vacation in which they can take a little trip away from home better fits them for their work.

Their Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the B. C. Board of Trade takes place at 3 o'clock to-morrow in the Board rooms, Bank of B. C. building, when the following important matters will be taken under consideration: Presentation of annual report, election of officers and council, election of new members, a scheme for the purchase of two lots and the erection thereon, the by-laws as amended by the committee and passed by the council. The B. C. Board of Trade is now an important institution, and all who possibly can should attend and help the Board to still further increase its usefulness. To-morrow is the last day that members will be admitted for $20, as the new by-laws raise the entrance fee to $30.

Fishermen in Luck.

If the salmon run is good this season the Fraser river pack will be the largest on record. All the canneries are prepared to put up their limit, and things will be unusually lively on the river while the sockeye run is on. The coho run, which has not been canned for several years, will receive the attention of the canners this fall, and consequently more money is likely to be spent on the river than ever. A number of cannery owners are contracting with free fishermen for their entire catch of sockeye at 20 cents each. This is a great price to pay, and double what has ever been offered in past years. The profits of canneryowners who pay this price will be somewhat reduced, but fishermen will be large gainers by the advance, yet even at 20 cents each some of the fishermen refuse to enter into a contract, expecting more later. The keen competition among canners is the cause of the high rate in price.

An old Man Injured.

Francis Lakin, an old man nearly 70 years of age, working for the city, met with a very painful and what may be a serious accident this morning. He was seated in a cart driving over James Bay bridge when the horse became frightened at a passing tram car and started to run away. Lakin was thrown out violently forward to the ground. One of the wheels of the car ran over his ankle bruising it badly and in the fall he fell on his left leg which was fractured at the hip joint. He was carried to his home and Dr. Milne summoned, who reduced the fracture and attended to his other injuries. At Dr. Milne's suggestion he was removed to the Jubilee Hospital, as in a man of his age a fracture is a very serious thing and very slow in knitting. But a few years ago the man had the same leg fractured just above the knee.

Police Court Doings.

Dominion Day did not produce as many drunks in the police court this morning as was expected as there were only four who appeared for trial and who received the usual $5 fine. Martin Ryan, of New Zealand, and Charles Angel, of Nowhere, were each charged with furnishing Klootchmen with whiskey. Neither pled guilty but their own stories convicted them and they received a fine of $50 each. The two klootchmen were discharged as E. Johnson, S.M., thought that they had been more sinned against than sinned themselves.

Robert Miller was charged with giving a false alarm of fire. In a hilarious mood on last Saturday night he stuck his head in the door of the fire engine house on Yates street and cried fire several times which brought the department out. It was evidently done as a joke but the laugh was the other way when he had to pay a fine of $5 and costs and receive a lecture from the court.

Oak Bay Avenue Extension.

Yesterday was the inauguration of the new Oak Bay Avenue extension of the Fort street tramway. Branching [illegible] through a pretty country with many handsome residences on each side of the line, and many more now in course of erection, and lands you directly on the point at as pretty a picnic or recreation ground as could be imagined. The track is well laid and the few slight grades are cut away and easily overcome, permitting a good rate of speed to be maintained throughout. It was a severe test of a new line as it was a holiday and two large and innumerable small picnics taking advantage of it, compelling the line to transport out and back during the day between three and four thousand people. Considering everything the delays were very slight and when the conductors learn better the use of a switch the trams will run on regular time. But one slight accident was recorded and that was not the fault of the management of the line but to the faulty construction of one of the open cars, a wheel of which broke while in motion on a down grade. The car ran off the track and shook the passengers up badly and one lady had to be taken home in a carriage, but she was only slightly bruised.

Kootenay.

Mr. J. M. Kellie, M.P.P. for East Kootenay, is in the city, having arrived night before last. Mr. Kellie, when seen by a representative of the TIMES as to the future prospects of Kootenay, replied that "they were never more favorable." Mr. Kellie, it will be remembered, was one of the mining commission appointed to re-codify the mining laws of the province, and in this capacity, together with his duties as member of the House, was absent from his district several months, and that during a portion of the year when mining operations are supposed to languish. Nevertheless, Mr. Kellie reports that on his return he was surprised at the progress that had been made, while since then the activity which has prevailed has been simply marvelous. "It is now conceded on all sides," says Mr. Kellie, "that one of the richest mineral strikes ever known on this continent is on the tapis. American experts are his authority, and as they are backing their judgment by purchasing every claim offered we are bound to accept it as an honest estimate." Mr. Kellie is to be congratulated on Kootenay's bright prospects. Strong in his faith in the richness of the mineral depotits of Kootenay, he has been an indefatigable worker, whether as a miner or as a legislator. In the House he succeeded in wringing from a none too willing Government, the appropriations much needed for roads and trails, two features inseparable from a country whose rough topography was its greatest bar to progress. Mr. Kellie as a representative has proved himself a valuable man.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

An Accident at Prospect Lake—Very Nearly a Fatal Termination.

Two of our prominent citizens, one a Government street and the other a Wharf street merchant, met with an experience yesterday which they will not soon forget, and which came nigh closing their earthly career. They drive out to prospect Lake to have a day's fishing, and on arrival took one of the several leaky boats there, and pulled up to the far end of the lake. They used tin dippers continuously to keep the water in check, which came in through open seams. On their return, when about the middle of the lake, suddenly the boat filled and the occupants, taking in the situation agreed to stick to the boat when she should have capsized. This resolve had no sooner been made than the accumulating water submerged the boat, throwing its occupants into the water. The boat turned over and came up bottom upwards—one gentleman caught hold of the stern, the other climbed upon the boat which again turned over throwing him into the water, which experience was repeated two or three times. Finally, a secure hold of the upturned boat was obtained, and for an hour the two unwilling bathers continued in this position. At last, Mr. John Duke of Kurtz & Co., and Mr. Frank Sehl who were in a boat fishing on the lake, came to the rescue, and towed the wrecked fishermen and their craft to shore. The rescuers produced a bottle of good brandy, which braced up the somewhat exhausted men and a fire was soon started, and such clothes as were saved dried. Messrs. Duke and Sehl, heard the wrecked parties shouting nearly an hour, before they realized that an accident had occurred. They thought that a voluntary swim was taking place, more especially as they heard the swimmers keeping up a conversation with each other. One gentleman lost his coat, vest, and his fishing outfit, the other's loss consisted chiefly of his coat. One of the party borrowed a coat on the way home (several sizes too large) and in this [illegible] plumes and drove into town minus coat and vest and with a bright stripped horse rug taking the place of those articles of apparel. All's well that ends well, and the two merchants are to-day at business, and their narrow escape from a watery grave seems to them as but a dream.

A bill is now before Parliament, having passed the House of Commons, to extend the time for completing the Chignecto Ship Railway and consequently to cancel the penalties for non-fulfilment of the contract within the time specified in the charter. The passage of this bill, says the Montreal Herald, will pave the way for other concessions to the company, perhaps for additional subsidy. The country is now bound to pay the promoters of this undertaking $3,400,000, or $170,000 a year for 20 years. At best the undertaking is one of doubtful utility; the chances are that it will be of trifling value to the country and of little advantage to those who have been induced to invest money in it; and the probabilities are that it will turn out to be a huge job with a very disagreeable scandal attached to it, as has been the case with so many enterprises fathered and promoted by High Commissioner Tupper.

THE RING.

SLAVIN AGAIN VICTORIOUS.

San Francisco, July 1.—Billy Smith and Jack Slavin, heavy-weights, both of Australia, fought for a purse of $1250 at the Occidental Athletic Club this evening and Slavin won in 48 rounds. Smith forced the fighting from the start and punished Slavin severely. The end was a surprise, as Slavin had been fought until he was groggy. In the forty-seventh round, while Smith was pummeling Slavin wherever he pleased, the latter punched him through the ropes. When Smith came up for the next round his hard work showed upon him and one blow from Slavin knocked him out.

The Modern Æsop.

Col. Æsop, who had recently gone to Sardis to help King Cresus to pull through some political jobs, went out for stroll up and down Broadway, the principal thoroughfare of Sardis. When he returned to the palace he related to the king the following story:—"An Ass met a Calf one afternoon. "Aw, deah boy," said the Ass, "you look ill." "Yaas," aswered the Calf, "caught a dweadful cold this mawning." "My, my, said the Ass. "Did you sit in a dwaft?" "Yaas," answered the Calf; "sat wight neah a vulgar fellow who whistled for his dog." When the distinguished fabler had concluded his story the King said:—"Esop, some of your yarns are rather hard to believe. For example, I can hardly imagine asses and calves conversing one with another." "That brings me to my moral," said Æsop. "Rich men should see that their sons become not asses and calves."—Detroit Free Press.

Cairo and the Pyramids.

Rev. D. J. Macdonnell, of Toronto, has written an interesting letter to the Presbyterian Review, dated "Indian Ocean, May 6th, 1891," which contains an interesting account of his visit to Cairo and the pyramids. In viewing the relics of history that have been accidentally, almost miraculously, preserved—the well of Joseph, the mummies of Seti I, and of his son Ramases II, the features of which are in a wonderful state of preservation,—the writer's attention is irrisistibly called to the importunate crowd of begging Arabs, who regard visitors as their legitimate prey. It is told with humor how the tempting offer of assistance in ascending the great pyramid was declined. There is a link between the past and present that is made doubly strong by viewing the face from which Moses fled after slaying the Egyptian, the face revealed after removing the wrappings that had enclosed it during all these centuries. Of the Sphynx, a few hundred yards from the Great Pyramid, he says: "One ought to go alone in the early morning, or in the moonlight, to take counsel with these majestic witnesses to the ancient glory of the Egyptian kings, and to their faith in immortality. The place is profaned by the din and clatter of the noisy crowd of Arabs."

CHAPTER IX.

FRANK MEETS AN OLD ACQUAINTANCE.

"Heaven aid me! Where am I now?—which way shall I turn?"

The speaker was Frank Besant—the scene, the bank of a swollen stream, once a mere mountain torrent, but now a rushing river of muddy waters.

Many things had happened since the fall of Fort Donelson. First and foremost the hero of that splendid victory, Ulysses Grant, for disobedience of orders, had fallen under the cloud of Halleck's displeasure and been peremptorily ordered to turn over the command to General C. F. Smith, a man of high military capacity, but brief career. Poor fellow! His was not a soldier's death on the battle-field, 'mid clang of arms and roar of guns, but the wound which laid him low—the mere scratch of a rusty nail stepping into a boat after the fall of Fort Donelson—was already sapping his vital forces.

Frank's regiment was again on the march to join Buell at Nashville, with Frank as acting Captain of his company and an assurance that his appointment would be soon confirmed.

Yet here he was in as hard a strait as man ever found himself.

The day had been one of strange adventure to him. A band of the enemy had been sighted at dawn, like themselves moving in a southerly direction to join their army, and Frank's company had been deployed as skirmishers, when, with a rush, there had sprung from ambush on the flank two troops of Confederate cavalry, that sought to cut off their retreat. It had been a mad recall, and most of his men had fought their way back to their command, but our hero had been ridden down by a horseman, and had fallen stunned and senseless to the ground, and when he had recovered his wits sufficiently to gaze around, the tide of battle had swept away, and not even a sound of fire-arms gave him a signal where were friend or foe. He had risen and shaken himself, and found to his delight that, though bruised in body, no bones were broken. But he was not alone. A few feet away a strange scene had presented itself. Prone on the ground, with his face to the earth, lay the figure of a man, while a horse, with torn bridle and turned saddle, stood over him, sniffing with distended nostrils the prostrate form of its master. The animal had not run away at Frank's approach, but had permitted him to capture and caress him without a sign of nervousness. Having tethered the horse to a tree, Frank had turned his attention to the man, whom he found to be a young Confederate cavalry officer, shot through the leg and literally bleeding to death. It had not taken him long to fashion a rough tourniquet of a leather strap and piece of wood, and to revive the wounded boy with water from a neighboring creek; so when he had done all to make him comfortable, he had mounted the horse and sped for assistance.

And now he found himself, after hours of useless riding, cut off from further hope by this turbid stream.

A cold day in latter March had passed away; a pale and cheerless sun, that had cast no heat on the leafless scenery, had sunk, and the darkness of a stormy night was coming on rapidly. On the [illegible] the current he had reined his weary and mud-covered horse, and by the light of day that yet lingered in the sky, had seen far away on the opposite bank the indistinct outlines of a house.

"Swim the river I must," he muttered, "but death may be the penalty."

He knew that in his rear, the way they had marched, lay wastes of morasses and dense pine woods, inhabited only by the few wild animals civilization had driven to its recesses. As he looked anxiously at the house, the abode evidently of some planter, its outlines disappeared in the gathering gloom of night; but lights were beginning to sparkle cheerfully through its many windows. Could those who were comfortably, perhaps luxuriously, seated within but know that there was a fellow-being on the eve perhaps of perishing helplessly amid the dark flow of that deep roaring river! Again and again he hallooed loudly, but in vain.

"Ah, if I should perish here—such a fate," thought he, shuddering. "To be cast a drowned corpse on some lonely swamp, and to be found and stripped by some reckless woodsman who will never even send word of my fate to the dear ones at Meltonburg."

With a brief invocation on his lips, he [illegible] the horse the rein, and with a fierce and angry snort the gallant beast plunged into the torrent. Floating roots and trunks of trees, the debris of the storm that had swept the land, struck rider and horse and forced them down the stream; but after twice nearly giving up the struggle, the horse gained its footing on the opposite bank and emerged from the flood, panting, snorting, dripping and trembling in every fiber.

Leading the sturdy steed by the bridle, and caressing it the while, he made his way up the bank, and, guided only by the lights in the mansion, he groped his way onward. It was a large house. The glowing warmth within shone through the curtains and bespoke comfort to the weary traveler, who could scarcely drag along his benumbed limbs. He boldly approached the door and knocked vigorously. A colored man-servant answered his summons, and hastily calling another to take his horse to the stable, ushered the drenched visitor into a comfortable room, on whose hearth a big log-fire was burning.

As Frank stood reveling in the glowing warmth, a tall, dignified, aristocratic old man entered, whose keen, dark eyes expressed a spirit that could be suave or irritable as occasion prompted.

"Where are you from?" he asked, abruptly, more in a tone of authority than of anxious inquiry.

Frank, shivering with cold, told his story briefly and without comment. When he recited his adventure with the wounded youth in the forest, the host's manner quickly changed. Nothing could be more urbane and agreeable than the tones in which he bade the young man welcome to his roof.

"We must thank your accident for procuring us the pleasure of your visit in this lonely place," he said, with a sweet smile. "And, if you will excuse me a few minutes I will see that a chamber is prepared for your occupation. You will be glad to be rid of that dripping uniform."

"But the poor lad, wounded in the woods," Frank said, anxiously. "We must lose no time in going to his relief."

"Ah, that is already attended to. A party of my people, attracted by the firing, hastened to the spot and found him just as you left him. They brought him here an hour ago—doubtless you, being ignorant of the country, wandered by a more circuitous route."

"And is he much hurt?" Frank asked, greatly relieved by the information. It did not strike him then as remarkable that his host's "people" should have been so fortunately successful in spotting the whereabouts of the unfortunate young man, though afterwards events made the mystery clearer.

"You certainly saved his life," the old man declared, gravely. "And now, without more talking, let me go and make preparations to relieve your discomfort."

Frank soon found himself in delightful quarters—a cheery, airy bedroom, with a roaring fire on its hearth and a suit of his host's clothes and linen lying handy on the snowy coverlet of a big, old-fashioned four-post bed. To strip, to wash, to dress, was but the work of a few minutes to the young soldier; but, quick as he was, he was barely ready when a servant announced that supper was served and Mr. Lascelles was awaiting his company.

"Mr. who?" Frank demanded of the retreating domestic.

"Mass'r Lascelles, boss. An' the ladies don gone down in the dinin'-room already."

Lascelles! Could fate have thrown him once more in contact with the charming heroine of his adventure at St. Louis? Why not? She said she lived in Kentucky; then, what more probable than that this mansion were her home, and his host the husband of the courtly old lady, who had nursed Charlie Fulton so tenderly? With these reflections, he descended the staircase, and following the sound of voices, entered the dining-room.

Yes, there she was, flashing in the superb beauty that had set his heart aflame so many months ago—she and another girl about her own age arm in arm, while the old man stood slightly frowning at the unavoidable delay.

Mary Lascelles recognized him in an instant. Without the slightest sign of embarrassment, she stepped forward with outstretched hand (very tiny and delicate it was, too, Frank noticed) to welcome him.

"Why, Mr. Besant," she said, sweetly. "This is indeed an unexpected pleasure."

Then turning to the old gentleman she added, with demure assurance: "I had the gratification of making Mr. Besant's acquaintance during my stay in St. Louis last fall, grandfather."

Mr. Lascelles did not speak, but a scarcely perceptible movement of his eyebrows expressed his surprise.

[illegible] girl to Frank, "let me introduce you to my cousin, Mabel Carter. There, you know us all now, so let us get to supper."

PHOTOGRAPHY IN COLORS.

A Frenchman Suggests a Simple Process —The Latest Wonder.

The fixing in the camera of the natural colors of a picture has always been the philosopher's stone of the photographer, and ever and anon the statement is given out that this much-desired goal has been attained, to be quickly followed by a description which goes to show how far from its promise the actual result of the supposed discovery really is. M. Lippmann has, however, now put before the French Academy of Sciences a plan which, if the statements made concerning it are substantiated, will constitute a distinct step toward the solution of the problem of photographing objects in their natural colors.

The suggested process is very simple, and involves the use of the ordinary reagents. The sensitive film, during exposure, is floated on the surface of mercury. Suppose, for instance, a ray of blue light strikes the sensitive film, it will pass through and, being reflected from the surface of the mercury behind, will pass out through the film again interfering on its way with the incident ray. When the two rays are in the same phase their effects will be additive, and the sensitive matter in the film will be strongly acted on. At a small distance farther on the two rays will neutralize each other so that the film is there totally unacted on. In this way the thickness of the film is divided up into layers, on which the light has acted, half a wave-length apart, and hence when fixed and dried it may be considered as consisting of a number of thin plates of half the wave-length of blue light in thickness, and will, therefore, give rise to a blue color when seen by reflected light, just as the thickness of a soap bubble gives rise to the colors seen in it.

Owing to the fact that the thickness of an ordinary film is many times the wave-length of a ray of light the colors obtained are said to be remarkably brilliant. They are, moreover, perfectly fixed, and the prints have been exposed both to a powerful electric arc light and to bright daylight without any signs of fading. It is also found that if the prints are viewed by transmitted in place of reflected light each color is replaced by its complementary one.

FREAK ROOMS.

No Satisfaction in Decorating Rooms to Suit Passing Fancy.

"Yes," said a decorator to a reporter of the Philadelphia Upholsterer. "I have a holy horror of freak rooms. There is no satisfaction in decorating a room to suit a passing fancy, for nine times out of ten it is soon wearied of and everything has to come down and out again. The reason why the 'Queen Anne,' the 'Adam' or 'Renaissance,' or any other recognized period of design is still in vogue, is because those schools are perpetuated by sound principles of beauty and good taste. You never get tired of a drawing-room in the early French schools of two hundred or more years ago. But here's a man comes in to me and wants a 'sporting-room.' He has his own ideas, and I simply fill them out for him, and ten to one he's tired of it in a month. He has a baby alligator suspended by tail and jaw from the mantle, and a Japanese doll astraddle its back, holding a pair of ribbon reins, which tie round the reptile's nose. The ceiling is draped with a huge fish-net, oars are used in place of curtain poles, and an Indian canoe is suspended from two corners and fitted up for a bunk. The wood work is picked out in Indian red, and fossils are scattered around on everything, like cotton snow on a Christmas tree. That man will weary of it all as soon as the silk ribbons are dirty and the crocodiles get dust covered.

"I have discovered one thing," continued the decorator, "and that is that there is more and more independence felt. People that want their house furnished nowadays know what they want, and don't require as much assistance as they did. This reason is largely due to the fact that people who can afford handsome interiors take the art journals, and their taste is cultivated up to a high standard, while the men who sell the goods don't, as a rule, do a great deal of reading, and they don't know as much as their customers."

A NOVEL FREIGHT STEAMER.

She Will Float Easily in a Foot of Water When Loaded Down.

A freight boat drawing but eight inches of water!

The craft was built for the Mexican trade and will be used in the shallow waters of the Mexican country, says the New York Continent. It is built of quarter-inch steel plates, is fifty feet in length over all and is three feet in depth.

At the trial held recently she was propelled by two six-inch high pressure horizontal engines, which are placed on the vessel at the extreme corner, so to speak, of the stern. The engine worked satisfactorily and gave the boat a speed of twelve miles an hour, which was more than was expected, as she was not built for fast traveling.

She is fitted with an Althouse boiler of the most improved fashion. Her bow is semi-circular, while her bottom is flat. The pilot house on the forward part of the deck is 7 feet wide, 10 feet long and 7 feet 4 inches high. The rest of the deck is perfectly clear, with the exception of the small boiler, which occupies a space of only about 2 by 3 feet, which will remain uncovered. The vessel will easily float in a foot of water, as she draws only eight inches.

The craft, instead of having a keel, is furnished with a centerpiece which is made of steel and runs the entire length of the vessel.

The rudders (two in number) are placed in front of the wheel and are eight feet apart.

At present a gang of workmen are employed in taking her engine and boiler apart, and when this is done she will be towed down the East river to the ward steamship Orizaba, when she will be placed on the steamship's deck, complete, and conveyed to Vera Cruz.

THEIR FIRST ANNUAL MEETING.

The New Directors for the Jubilee Hospital Elected on Tuesday.

The first annual general meeting of the subscribers of the Provincial Royal Jubilee Hospital was held at the City Hall on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mayor Grant in the chair and the following gentlemen present: Joshua Davies, H. M. Yates, W.M. Chudley, Alex. Wilson, Chas. Hayward, W. D. Warren, H. A. Munn, I. Braverman, John Braden, Thos. Shotbolt, B. W. Pearse, A. C. Flummerfelt and Jas. S. Yates. The reports of the secretary, treasurer and physician were read. They showed a very satisfactory state of affairs.

Mr. Thos. Shotbolt presented the names of 12 gentlemen whom he took pleasure in nominating as directors for the ensuing year.

Mr. J. S. Yates took objection to this mode of electing directors and moved in amendment that the directors be elected separately. His amendment was carried when the following directors were elected: Joshua Davies, Charles Hayward, B. W. Pearse, Jas. S. Yates, W.M. Chudley, Alex. Wilson, E.A. McQuade, A. C. Flummerfelt, Charles E. Redfern, John Grant, W. C. Ward and Geo. Byrnes.

Before adjourning Mr. Chudley announced that he had received a donation towards the hospital that would make the hearts of the new directors glad. A gentleman, who did not wish his name mentioned, had handed him a check for $1000. (Cheers.)

After the subscribers' meeting the new board of directors met and selected the following officers unanimously: Joshua Davies, president; Chas. Hayward, vice-president; Wm.M. Chudley, honorary treasurer, and H.M. Yates, secretary. The secretary was authorized to call for tenders for hospital supplies for the coming six months.

Mr. Davies, in thanking the board for the honor conferred on him, drew their attention to the financial state of the institution. He said one of the things for the new board to do, was to try and liquidate the debt of the institution, as at present over $1000 had to be taken from the general fund to pay interest on the mortgage. He was sure that if the public was appealed to at least $5000 could be collected towards lowering the debt, and he asked all the members of the new board to solicit subscriptions. It was best to leave the French Hospital as it was for the present, as the $100 a month that it would bring in was good interest on that asset. Messrs. Hayward and Chudley also thanked the board, and the meeting adjourned.

The Way to Dispel Gloom, and How to be Happy.

We are always refreshed and feel happier by the presence of cheerful people; why not make earnest efforts to confer that pleasure on others? There are many who now look gloomy, and whose whole life and conversation throws a shadow and cloud over joy and happiness. In the majority of cases a close examination will at once convince that the gloomy in conversation, life and action, suffer more or less from nervous debility, irritableness, moroseness, melancholia, mental depression, or dyspepsia. Any one of these ailments is enough to mar and destroy a happy and joyous disposition. Reader, if you are one of such victims, the fault is your own, if you do not effect a change.

Your effectual remedy is Paine's Celery Compound; its work is magical in cases like yours. It dispels all nervous feelings; it induces sweet rest, and a flow of happy spirits; it lifts all mental depression, and gives a sound and harmonious action to the digestive organs, and great musculatory power and vigor. You can be happy yourself and make others around you happy. Keep the body, nerves and brain in healthy action with Paine's Celery Compound, and the world will be all the better for your life, and the happiness you can spread around.

The Waifs of New York.

Katie Emmett in "the Waifs of New York" drew a "standing room only" house at the Victoria last night. The play itself presents but little worthy of favorable comments except as it gives Miss Emmett an opportunity to portray in her inimitable way a rollicking boys character, which constantly brought forth tumultuous applause from the small boys in the upper gallery. Her support was very good and each member of the company sustained their part excellently. The stage setting in the railway bridge and fire scenes were very realistic and well showed the possibilities in modern stage mechanism.

Purify

The importance of keeping the blood in a pure condition is universally known, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. The taint of scrofula, salt rheum, or other foul humor is heredited and transmitted generations, causing untold suffering, and we also accumulate poison and germs of disease from the air we breathe, the food we eat, or the water we drink. There is nothing more conclusively proven than the positive power of Hood's Sarsaparilla over all diseases of the blood. This medicine, when fairly tried, does expel every trace of scrofula or salt rheum, removes the taint which causes catarrh, neutralizes the acidity and cures rheumatism, drives out the germs of malaria, blood poisoning, etc. It also vitalizes and enriches the blood, thus overcoming that tired feeling, and building up the whole system. In its preparation, its medicinal merit, and the wonderful cures it accomplishes Hood's Sarsaparilla is Peculiar to Itself. Thousands testify to its success, and the best advertising Hood's Sarsaparilla receives is the hearty endorsement of its army of friends. Every testimonial we publish, and every statement we make on behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla may be relied upon as strictly true in every respect.

Your Blood

If you need a good blood purifier or building up medicine, be sure to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. Further information and statements of cures sent free to all who address us as below.
